TEACH LOYALTY TO FOREIGNERS

FORD ENGLISH SCHOOLS INCULCATE PRINCIPLES OF PURE AMERICANISM IN STUDENTS.

TRIAL DRAWING TO A CLOSE

Attorneys Begin Final Arguments After Ford Counsel Presents Dramatic Testimony On Educational Work.

Mt. Clemens, Mich.—Henry Ford's counsel kept until the final day on which testimony was presented, the strongest arguments in their possession. Not until the trial was within a few hours of its close did they bring to the witness stand Clinton C. DeWitt, superintendent of the Ford English school.

"Mr. Ford," said the witness, "was of the opinion that you could not successfully put over one idea while there were 52 languages spoken in the factory, so to promote that one idea, which was and is Americanism, he insisted that every workman must learn to speak the 'American'—not the English—language.

"There were 3,000 students in the school before the United States entered the war and the factory was practically turned over to government work."

Sample lessons were read by the witness. Parts are given as follows: "Every good American loves and respects the United States Flag.

"Our flag stands for liberty, justice and peace.

"Its colors are red, white and blue. The red stands for love, the white stands for purity, the blue stands for truth."

"American flags," said the witness, "were used profusely in the school room and a silk flag always flutters before an electric fan.

Teach Americanism.

The men are taught that there is no greater title than "American citizen" and are urged to accept the advantages of education offered by this country so that they may fit themselves through knowledge, to defend their liberties.

Pictures of great Americans adorn the class rooms, special exercises are held on the birthday of great leaders of the nation and finally, when the class graduates, it is presented with souvenir American flags and is given membership in what is known as the "American Club." The Federal and state courts recognize a diploma from the Ford English school as an evidence of adequate preparation for citizenship, it was shown.

Through this testimony counsel sought to bring out that the man who taught 3,000 foreigners to love their adopted country and to respect its flag could scarcely be called a nationalist and that a man who sought every possible method to instill love for the Stars and Stripes in the hearts of those who come to it from foreign shores, could never have made the slanderous statements attributed to him by Tribune counsel.

Mr. Ford, it was shown, loaned all his educational workers to the government at the time war broke out; the war department found the method used in the Ford English school so valuable that they introduced them in all training camps. Henry Ford said the salaries of the men he loaned to the government for the work.

Closing Arguments Open.

Closing arguments in the case opened the last of the week. Attorney Wm. Lucking led off for Ford counsel. He called attention first to the testimony which showed that the Tribune, not for intervention in Mexico because it thought such action would lead to conquest or at least to great riches for the United States, had found Henry Ford blocking its path just when its long campaign gave promise of bearing fruit. Thereupon, said the attorney, the Tribune set out to destroy Mr. Ford's influence, to sweep him out of its path and to still his voice which pleaded for a course which would help the bleeding republic to the south to regain her feet and to strike forth on a new highroad of education and freedom.

Attorney Weymouth Kirkland opened for the Tribune. He declared that what Mr. Ford had done since 1916—when the Tribune called him an anarchist—had nothing whatever to do with the situation as it was when the newspaper stigmatized the manufacturer as an enemy of his country. He did not deny that Mr. Ford had done an immense and valuable work for the government during the war but he claimed that this did not alter the facts as they were before war broke out. Mr. Ford, the attorney insisted, was an anarchist at the time the Tribune described him as such, and the truth he said was sufficient justification for the attack.

Water and the Human Body. The specific gravity of water and the human body is virtually the same. A body in the water is supported by equal pressure at all points. It is more likely to be at ease than under other circumstances. It is, therefore, more likely that it may move without pain. So cripples are often given their exercise in the water.

Soldiers' Monument

"The idea of erecting memorial buildings instead of monuments of marble or bronze to the men who lost their lives in the war is such a logical one, that it is being adopted not only by many states, but by the nations," said Congressman J. Campbell Cantrell, in discussing the proposed Stage building at the University of Kentucky. Mr. Cantrell was in Lexington enroute to Washington.

"There is now in progress at the national capital a movement to erect a mammoth convention hall, in which will be placed on bronze tablets the names of all Americans who lost their lives in the service. It will be used by multitudes who will be continually reminded of the sacrifices made by the men in whose honor it will be built, and of the principles of democracy for which they died. With each day's use by a people seeking to perpetuate the memory of those who gave their lives, and will keep forever green the memory of those who wish to honor.

more lasting than brass, and a worthy memorial.

"Kentucky should take the same steps to honor her 2,800 sons who died in the service, and I shall do everything in my power to promote the campaign to obtain $300,000 for a State memorial building on the campus of the University of Kentucky. It is particularly fitting that the building should be at the University rather than at the State Capital, since it will be continually before the eyes and in the use of the young men and women who will reap the benefits of the peace won by the dead heroes, many of whom came from their number. I understand that the proposed building will be used to house student activities, and will have a large auditorium for student assemblies. Such a use will further dignify the memorial, which is to have in the rotunda, tablets bearing the names of men from each county who gave their lives, and will keep forever green the memory of those who wish to honor.

"Since the University has donated the site, I am sure there will be little difficulty in raising the money needed for the building. The amount asked is not large, smaller than that asked by several states which are planning similar memorials, and it is fitting that the necessary fund should be raised by popular subscriptions. We should not let any of Kentucky's sons go unremembered, when their glorious deeds have lighted the pages of the nation's history in every war in which they have participated, and I believe there is no better way of showing appreciation of their sacrifice."

A GREAT REMEDY.

The merits of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy are well known and appreciated, but there is occasionally a man who had no acquaintance with them should read the following by F. H. Dear, a hotel man at Dupuy, Mont. "Four years ago I used Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy with such wonderful results that I have since recommended it to my friends.
